Comfort.

At Unity, there's no need to put off a urological procedure because you're worried about pain. We're committed to pain control, and we provide urologic care with as much comfort as possible.

We often use a sedative to relieve anxiety prior to the procedure. During the procedure, we'll use a topical, local or general anesthetic to ensure that you experience the least discomfort possible. And, of course, we'll prescribe an appropriate analgesic to control any pain after your procedure.
